

TWO IN THE MURDER.

Newark Police Have That Theory of Miss Petty's Death.

Colored Men Who Robbed Her Two Years Ago Suspected.

Brass Door Knob Found with Which Wounds Were Inflicted.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 23.—The Newark police, under the direction of Chief Hopper, are on their mettle to-day, and every effort is being made to unravel the mystery connected with the murder of old Elizabeth Petty, the miser and reclusive who was found dead yesterday in her home at 79 Commerce street.

It was learned by an "Evening World" reporter shortly before noon that Chief Hopper had a leaning towards the theory that the crime may have been committed by two colored men, who were employed by the Board of Health two years ago to clean up the premises.

It was not long after this that the woman's house was entered and robbed of a small amount of money. One of the colored men was arrested at the time, but Miss Petty refused to make any charge against him.

On the occasion of the robbery two years ago, when Miss Petty was assaulted by the burglars, he had been on an errand, leaving a lighted lamp downstairs.

When she returned the light was gone from the hall, and she saw its reflection in one of the upper rooms.

She fearlessly went upstairs and was knocked down by the burglars. Her conduct on that occasion leads to the belief that when she entered her house on the night of the murder she at once made a light herself, without attempting to call for assistance.

As yet the only tangible thing which the detectives have to work upon is the weapon with which, in all probability, the wounds on the woman's head were made.

ROOM WHERE THE BODY WAS FOUND. It is a brass door knob with a steel chain six inches long, which terminates in a screw thread, and which is covered with blood, as is a black cloth string which is tied around it.

County Physician Elliott, who performed the autopsy on the body last night, is of the opinion that the wounds on the left temple and neck were made by the end of the steel chain, which was thrust repeatedly against the woman's head.

The wounds are not deep enough to have been made by any but a blunt instrument.

The door-knob is, the police think, one of several which are known to Miss Petty. She had about her house and sometimes carried on her person apparently for self-protection. It is believed that she was near the pool of blood in the front hallway, where from all that can be learned the murder was committed.

Chief Hopper, while he will not disclose the nature of the theory as to who are the murderers, for he is positive two men did the job, gave his opinion as to how the crime was committed.

There is little doubt, he says, that the murderers gained an entry to the house from the rear cellar door during Miss Petty's absence. The fresh loaf of bread, wrapped in a brown paper, found on the floor in the hall, leads him to believe that she had gone out to buy the bread when the persons who killed her entered the house.

It must have taken at least twenty minutes to whittle through the door at the top of the cellar stairs, so as to obtain the purchase on the door-lamb necessary to break the door-chain, which was on the street. This would necessitate Miss Petty being absent on her errand to the baker's something like half an hour.

It was learned this morning that Policeman Thomas Brodick, of the First Precinct, whose post is in the neighborhood of the murdered woman's house, saw Miss Petty on Monday evening. The exact time when he saw her Chief Hopper does not see fit to disclose just now.

There is also a report not yet verified that Miss Petty was seen by a clerk named Holmes making a purchase in the notion store of Hahn & Co., at Broad and Halsey streets, on Monday evening.

Holmes could not be found this morning, but if he did see the woman on Christmas Day that was the last time she was ever on the street. He said to-day that the woman had been dead from thirty-six to forty-eight hours when found yesterday morning about 8 o'clock.

that Miss Petty was choked to death by a person who knotted her chest. The condition of the lungs and the fracture of a small bone in the throat show conclusively that the woman died from strangulation. The wounds evidently made by the steel chain of the door knob, were not, he thinks, sufficient to cause death.

If the motive for the crime was robbery, it is quite certain that the murderers became frightened before they could make a thorough search. The disquieting state of the door knob, with its clothing when found would seem to indicate that she had been searched. It must have been very hurried, however, as $20 was found on the body by the police.

A body is at the morgue on Washington street, and Miss Petty's cousin, William J. Bennett, of 21 Academy street, and Philip Bennett, of 111 Marjorie street, have the keys to the house, which is securely barred against visitors. Detectives Stalnely, Carroll and Walker are working on the case.

Chief Hopper is trying first to learn if possible the nature of the property taken by the murderers. It is thought that Miss Petty had a small amount of jewelry, and that these were the only items taken. Could these be traced, it would be a comparatively easy matter to locate the criminals.

Superintendent of Police Brown, Chief Hopper and two other officers, including Lewis, made another examination of the premises to-day. In a closet opening off a third-story room, they found the dead bodies of four more cats. In the same closet was a lot of woman's wearing apparel on a shelf. In the closet were two boxes of cigars which had never been opened, and scattered about the floor was considerable amount of money in silver and bills.

STAYED THE FORECLOSURE.

The Lipshitz Brothers Showed a Gun and Knife to Goldman.

Manna Goldman, a real estate dealer, of 27 Eldridge street, made a charge of disorderly conduct against Morris and Louis Lipshitz, brothers, of 11 Allen street, in Essex Market Police Court to-day.

Goldman loaned the Lipshitz brothers some money to start a saloon and took a mortgage on the fixtures for the money. The business was very bad, and the Lipshitz brothers were unable to repay the money to Goldman, who tried to foreclose the mortgage yesterday morning with the Simon Steingut, a second avenue auctioneer, to sell out the fixtures.

The Lipshitz brothers became so enraged that they threatened to shoot Goldman unless he and the auctioneer left the store. Louis Lipshitz pulled a revolver at Goldman, and his brother went at him with a large knife.

Police Officer D. of the Eldridge street station, arrested the brothers. Justice Voorhis had them in default of $200 bail to keep the peace for the next six months.

ATTACKED A POLICEMAN.

Dolan Objected to Being Told to Stop His Insults.

Patrick Dolan, twenty-nine years old, of 134 Second avenue, was held for trial in the Harlem Police Court this morning charged with assault on Policeman Daly, of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station.

Daly boarded a Third avenue cable car going downtown this morning at 7 o'clock, and saw a man walking on the platform, was insulting women as they got on and off the car. The policeman told him to stop and Dolan became abusive.

At One Hundred and Fourth street, Dolan was told to get off the car and go towards One Hundred and Fifth street. In the middle of the block he was told to get off the car and go towards One Hundred and Fifth street. Behind him, the policeman knocked him down twice before he submitted to arrest. When he was taken to the station, he was found with a wound on his head.

CONFERRED TO BURGLARY.

Gordon Entered a House and Stole $200 Worth of Property.

John Gordon, twenty-one years old, of 540 Grand street, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury in the Essex Market Police Court to-day on the charge of burglary.

On Saturday night he entered the apartments of Philip Anagnost, 7 Broome street, and stole two coats, a hat, a pair of shoes, and a watch. He was seen around the neighborhood at the time the burglary was committed and was arrested on suspicion.

Gordon at once admitted his guilt and handed over a number of pawn tickets representing the stolen property to the detectives.

SMASHED WINDOWS TO STEAL.

Wealthy Merchant's Son Disgraced His Father by Turning Thief.

John Gies, son of a respectable and wealthy merchant, of 338 West Seventeenth street, was held by Justice Hogan in the Jefferson Market Court in $300 bail for trial, charged by Max Weiss, shoe dealer, of 136 Tenth avenue, with the smashing of windows in his store.

He was also charged with having broken into the store of a jewelry dealer, and with having stolen a watch. He was arrested on Monday evening, and is now in the Jefferson Market Court.

INNOCENT GIRL ARRESTED.

Locked Up for Theft—Her Brother Now Accused.

William Sutton, of 203 East Twenty-ninth street, was held in $300 bail in the Yorkville Court this morning, charged with stealing a blanket belonging to Truman Richard Barry, of 75 City street.

Sutton had surrendered himself. His brother, John Sutton, was arrested for the last night, although innocent, was locked up over night. She was promptly discharged by Justice Grady.

Dishonest Bookkeeper Arrested.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—Charles P. Miller, bookkeeper for John F. Bernhardt, proprietor of Hotel Bernhardt, whose post is in the neighborhood of the murdered woman's house, saw Miss Petty on Monday evening. The exact time when he saw her Chief Hopper does not see fit to disclose just now.

There is also a report not yet verified that Miss Petty was seen by a clerk named Holmes making a purchase in the notion store of Hahn & Co., at Broad and Halsey streets, on Monday evening.

SAYS SHE KILLED HERSELF.

Wife-Murderer Freeholder Feared Instant Execution.

Admitted While Intoxicated that He Hacked Her to Death.

Christian Freeholder, trembling from the effects of debauch and crazed with fear at the probable consequences of the crime of murder, with which he stands charged, was arraigned before Justice Grady in the Yorkville Court to-day for killing his wife.

Freeholder, who is fifty-six years old, lived on the third floor in the tenement house 112 First avenue. His wife, Mary, and three adult children, Eva, Lizzie and Henry, all lived with him, and as a family, they were well known to the neighbors. He had a strong hold on the family, and the police believe that in an outburst of drunken fury yesterday afternoon he hacked his poor, hard-working wife to death. A knife, supposed to be the weapon with which the crime was committed, was found in the kitchen, but all traces of blood had been carefully washed from it.

None of the neighbors in the house yesterday heard any noise in the Freeholder's tenement, and it was only through the incoherent mauling remarks of the Freeholder himself to Mrs. Dubois, the housekeeper, that the first knowledge of the crime was obtained.

Mrs. Freeholder was alone with the exception of her husband and a married daughter, who lived in the front room. She was washing. Freeholder is believed to have left the house at 11 o'clock, and to have returned at 1 o'clock to see his mother, Mrs. Laber, who lives in the immediate neighborhood.

Freeholder, who is a native of Ireland, and who has been in the country for many years, was arrested at his home on the third floor of the tenement house 112 First avenue, and taken to the station.

At noon the workmen had cleared the debris from the front door, and the body of the woman was found lying face down in the street. The body was found in a straight line from the door to the side of the building, as if done by a saw.

It was the work of the falling ceiling under which Milner had perished. How the ceiling fell, and why it fell, is not known, as the place is filled with a dense smoke.

The body of brave Gus Milner, the member of Insurance Patrol No. 1, who lost his life while performing his duty at the fire in August Vahlen's picture frame factory, 426 Pearl street, late last night, was not recovered up to noon to-day.

T. P. Galligan, contractor, of 528 East Seventeenth street, has thirty-five men at work taking out the debris. They have cleared away fifty feet of rubbish, but the body lies buried thirty-five feet further back, on the ground floor, which was used as a saleroom.

JUDGE AND COUNSEL BICKER. Justice Voorhis Charged with Not Knowing His Business.

A Lively Controversy Arises from an Assault Case.

Justice Voorhis, sitting in Essex Market Court, and Lawyer John Fennel, of the Stewart Building, had a lively controversy in court to-day over the conduct of the case of Kerscher vs. Smith, which grew out of an assault said to have been committed with a club on Election night.

Complainant Kerscher failed to identify Smith as his assailant this morning, and Justice Voorhis declared the matter had been squared outside the court. Policeman Donnelly, of the Union Market station, said Smith had admitted to him that he committed the assault, and when Justice Voorhis asked the defendant if that was true Lawyer Fennel instructed Smith not to answer.

Justice Voorhis then charged the lawyer with attempting to screen the defendant, and added that he could understand how and why a lawyer would do that. He then asked the defendant if that was true. The defendant replied that he did not know his business, as no defendant is obliged to incriminate himself. Justice Voorhis replied, accusing Lawyer Fennel of attempting to evade the law, and the counsel answered that he would allow no man, judge or otherwise, to insult him.

The judge then asked the defendant if that was true. The defendant replied that he did not know his business, as no defendant is obliged to incriminate himself.
